

Pastor of High School Ministries

It's time to ramp it up! At BridgePoint, we talk about encouraging every person we meet to take their next step with Christ, and we want to do a great job of that with students. So, you guessed it, we are looking for someone with the passion, experience, and character to do just that.

Here's What We Want

- ◆ A Passion for Jesus: As far as we are concerned, it's all about Jesus. You've got to love him and want others to follow hard after him too.
- ◆ A Love for Students: Hanging out eating pizza, talking Jesus late in the night, rooting hard at football games, standing by broken kids—this is the stuff that ought to make you tick!
- ◆ A Great Teacher: Come on, if you can't tell people clearly about Jesus, then it's pretty tough for others to follow him.
- ◆ Character that Counts: Humility, determination, flexibility, and integrity are high on our list, both when we are looking and when we are not.
- ◆ Vision & Leadership: We're not looking for someone to create a youth entertainment schedule. We want someone who knows how to lead students, volunteers, and parents to reach out into the community and draw new students to BridgePoint.
- ◆ Successful Ministry Experience: We think you probably need at least three to five years in the bag to be ready to step into this job.
- ◆ Solid Educational Base: You can't draw from an empty well, so we expect our next pastor to have had some training along the way, if not a seminary degree in hand
- ◆ Intangibles: Everyone knows you can check off the above and be, well, boring. We aren't looking for a rock star, but a little spice in one form or another certainly wouldn't hurt!

Here's What You Get

- ◆ A fantastic group of fun-loving, God-seeking students, a competitive salary, a solid ministry budget, a great church body, health & life insurance, a cool student ministry room, retirement, disc golf on the property, continuing education, and what we think is a super staff team.

Think You Fit?

- ◆ Send your resume to bpbcsearch@gmail.com
- ◆ If we think you might be a fit too, we will be in touch soon.
